

QUALITY & CHOICE
THE SWIFT WAY

Designed to last

From the time the very first Swift model rolled off the production line over 26 years ago, innovative design and quality of construction have been the hallmark of the company.

All Swifts are built to stand the test of time and an excellent resale value is testimony to their ongoing popularity over the years.

Today, Swift Caravans has grown from being one of the pioneers of modern caravan manufacturing techniques to become one of the leading companies producing leisure vehicles in Europe.

It is part of the Swift Group, which includes Swift Motorhomes, the UK's top coachbuilt motorcaravan manufacturers, together with companies involved in plastics manufacturing and transport.

The Group's 26 acre production complex at Cottingham in North Humberside bristles with all the latest high technology design and production equipment, making it the envy of the European caravan industry.

This has transformed the way the modern caravan is conceived and manufactured.

Starting at the design stage, a powerful CAD computer system, produces everything from initial concepts to final drawings for the production lines. It provides the designers with hundreds of options, many in three dimensions, enabling them to picture the Swift tourers of tomorrow, without a panel being built. Adjustments and refinements can be made at the touch of a computer key.

In days gone by it would have been necessary to build a prototype of every design option. Now it can be produced in a fraction of the time on the computer screen, such is the pace of progress and the quest for quality.

Even in construction the computer has come into its own. The factory floor boasts the latest computer numerically controlled machines, producing the finest quality furniture, and many other vital components, all under Swift's direct control.

Quality built-in

Years of experience and craftsmanship is built into every Swift product, experience that has gained the company the reputation for making the best quality touring caravans in Europe.

The best products deserve the best dealers, and Swift's nationwide network are all hand picked to ensure the standard of quality built into each caravan is matched by the standard of service provided by every Swift dealer.

A service that is supported by a factory operated after sales scheme, designed to provide the Swift customer with an after sales service par excellence.

Purpose built after sales delivery vehicles provide dealers with a round the year supply of spare parts. And with dealer staff attending regular product knowledge and after sales service courses at the company's purpose built £350,000 training centre, every Swift customer is assured of the most informed attention and service when buying a new caravan.

The 1991 range is the largest and most comprehensive ever produced by Swift. Starting off the year are 20 models from the Swift, Corniche, Challenger and Conqueror ranges. By early 1991 there will also be an exciting new, value for money, 5 model Rapide range, and a 2 model, luxury Celeste range, proving the ultimate in two berth comfort.

Choose your own style and your own level of comfort.

A perfect combination of design, quality of construction and choice of models puts the 1991 range from Swift at the top of every caravanners list.

Inside every Swift there is a story of craftsmanship, attention to detail and years of experience, supporting the company's reputation for building a better touring caravan.

Many of the more important points are hidden from the eye, but are just as important as the more obvious features. This cut away sectional view of a Challenger 470/2SE illustrates some of these points.

The inside story

Swift has a policy of continuous product development, and the designers scrutinize information from a wide variety of sources before selecting items to enter into the development programme.

Important sources for this information are comments from existing Swift owners, suggestions from the company's dealers, and an ongoing market research programme.

ALL-ROUND INSULATION

Floors that are 44mm thick, walls 24mm thick and a roof 31mm thick provides superior strength and insulation.

SAFETY

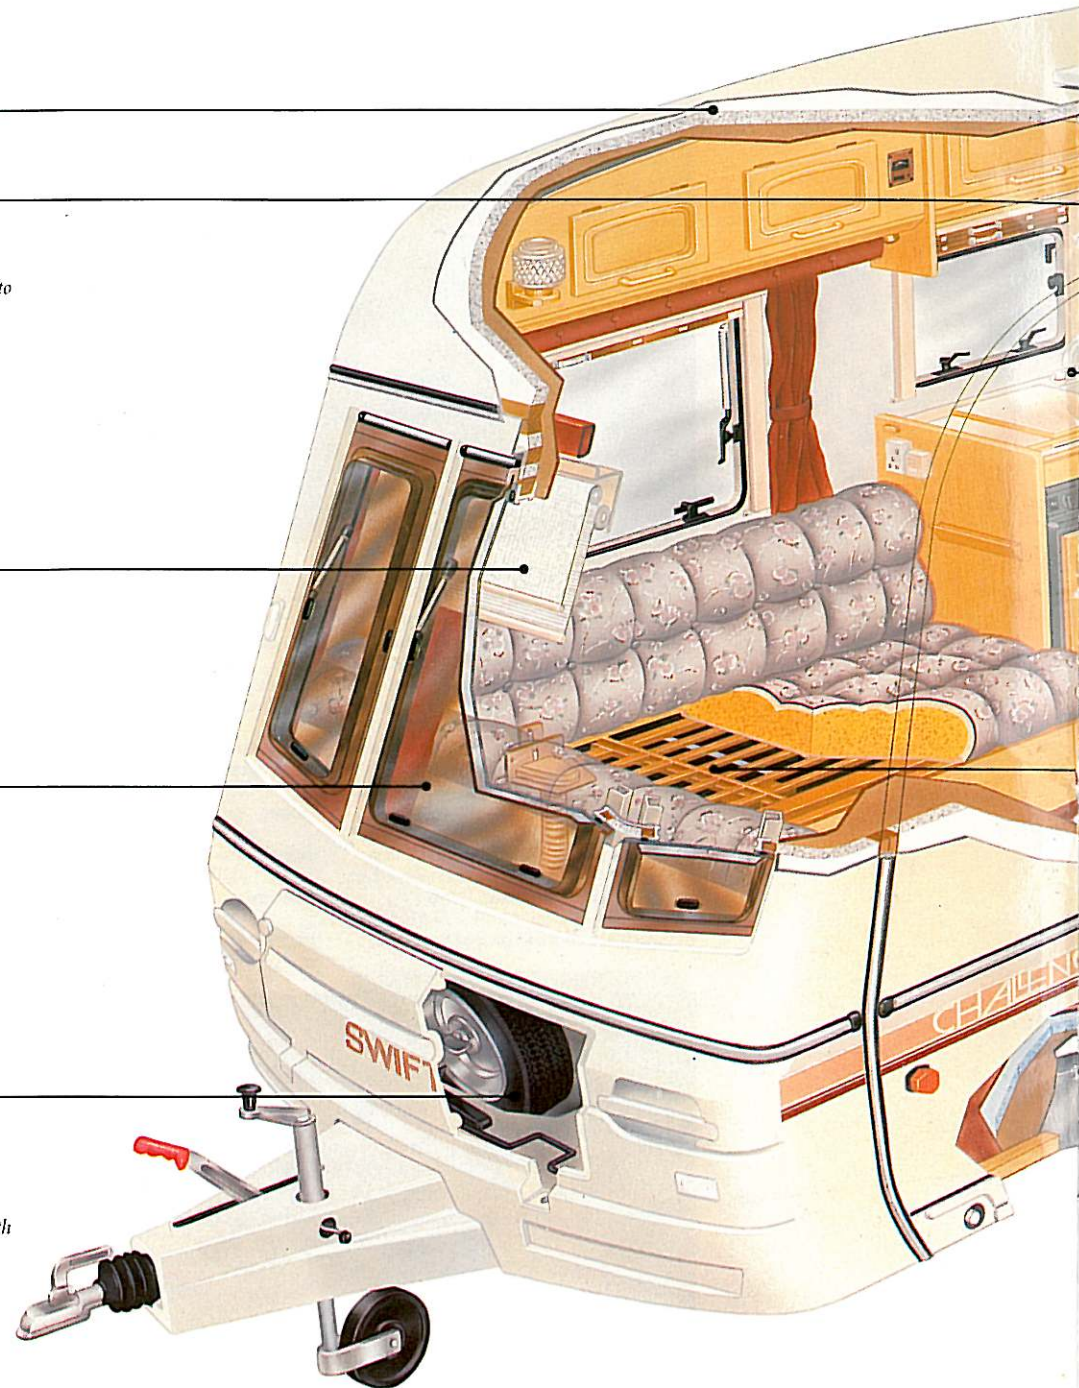

Luxury fitted kitchen with friction hinges to the hob work top to make sure it stays safely in place.

SECURITY

Double glazed windows across the full width, many with integral blinds and flyscreens.

STYLE

Front GRP mouldings provide style with practicality. Integral bottle box holders with one piece GRP floors (not Swift) also house a wheel brace, jack handle and optional spare wheel.

PERFORMANCE

Lightweight chassis with wide track axle for optimum safety and performance.

PRACTICALITY

Ventilation boards behind seat rests and slatted bed box construction to banish condensation.

LUXURY

Taps with separate microswitches in the kitchen and shower (not Swift). Most showers also have an adjustable height riser bar for the shower head to cater for all the family.

FURNITURE

Solid ash framed furniture doors with stylish profiles for good looks and long life.

FURNITURE FIXING

Furniture is fixed by screwing into solid steel plates set into the wall, providing the ultimate way to fit the furniture.

No idea or suggested improvement is too small to consider. Examples of this are well illustrated in the more detailed model improvements across the range for 1991.

Little things like counter balance hinges on hob work surfaces, for safe easy use.

Door mats that sit in their own recessed floor well and have a built in dust brush out facility.

And side marker lights and more reflectors to make your caravan stand out after dark.

All practical points to make your holiday more relaxing.

All Swift products have been generally upgraded to meet European safety standard ISO 8818, and all power packs now also conform to European standards of performance and safety.

Another illustration of advanced planning for 1992 and particularly relevant as a growing number of Swift owners spend their holidays abroad.

The all new Rapide sets new standards in style and value for money bringing the renowned Swift quality of construction and standard of finish within the range of anyone looking for a new caravan.

There is no longer any need to compromise. Swift models now cover the complete market, from the value for money Rapides to the super luxury, twin axle Conqueror.

Innovative style, renowned quality of construction and finish, the finest attention to detail, a superb re-sale value and a loyal following from caravanners of all ages, are all synonymous with the Swift name.

Needless to say, they are also what makes the new Rapides extra special.

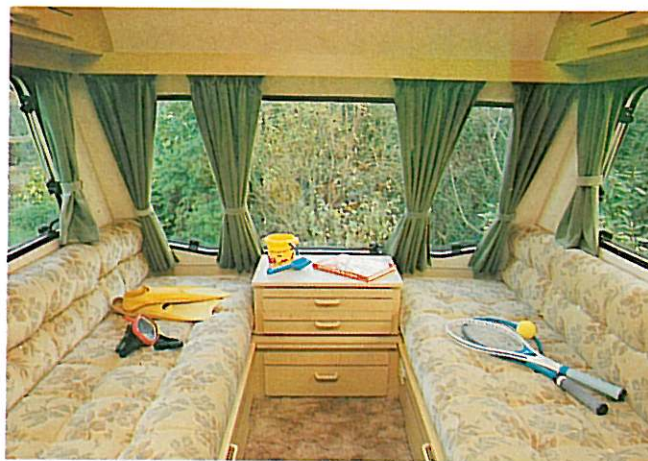

They have more style. The front is a one piece acrylic capped ABS panel, to enhance the aerodynamics. To provide the optimum balance, the gas bottle locker is now centrally positioned.

They have more strength. The best sandwich construction techniques combined with a galvanised lightweight chassis provides the ultimate combination of strength and performance.

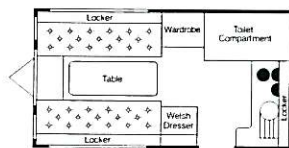

They have more luxury. Inside the Rapides have top quality furniture, a luxury fitted kitchen with Electrolux fridge, a Carver 1800 heater, mains electrics and even a shower tray in the washroom. There is also an optional cassette toilet and hot water system.

They offer more choice. There are five models including a 2 berth model, all based on popular layouts to suit every need.

The Corniche remains one of the most distinctive exterior designs on the market. Its raised bottom skirt, made from GRP, gives the four model range a unique appearance, ideally suited to complement the more rounded shapes of today's motor cars.

Inside the best of Swift tradition makes this a super luxury caravan by anyone's standards. New for 1991 is a dual powered water heater, serving the shower room and kitchen, which also has an integrated oven and grill, and a four burner hob with electronic ignition.

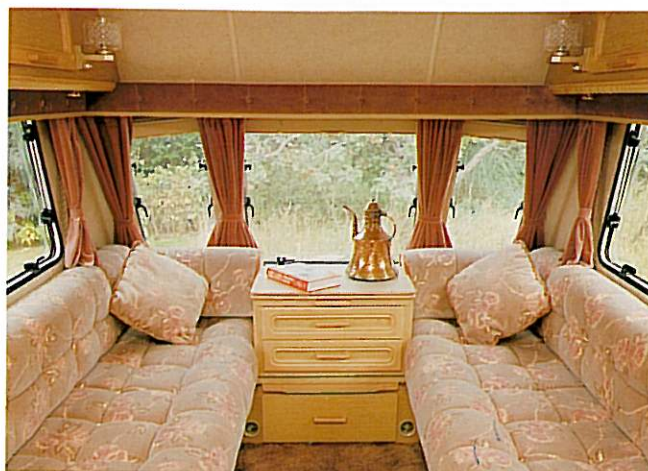

Supplementary power now comes from a battery (not supplied), housed in a new style slide-out box, accessed conveniently from the outside. Water comes via new style taps, with replaceable microswitches, and the solid ash framed furniture doors have a new style profile.

Blown air heating is via the latest Carver 3000 fire, just one of the long list of standard features that makes the Corniche one of the most luxurious caravans in its class, with a style that is totally Swift.

There are twin axle tourers and then there is the Conqueror range from Swift, three models that lead the way in design and specification, and are clearly in a class of their own.

The Conquerors were designed for year round caravanning and the 1991 models are the most comprehensively equipped ever produced.

Maximum use of space has been achieved by increasing the internal width to 2.1 metres (6'11"), providing more spacious rear-end luxury shower rooms in all models.

The 520/5 also now has a more spacious 'L' shaped rear dinette providing larger beds, and a sideboard unit for extra storage.

Other improvements include new continental style ash framed furniture, an improved control panel console in the kitchen, with extractor fan, light, water level, pump and battery condition indicators.

Check out the list of features and you will see that every conceivable creature comfort is standard, making the Conquerors go anywhere any time of the year caravans.

The Celeste is a perfect blend of traditional caravan styling and modern manufacturing techniques, providing the ultimate in two berth luxury.

The exterior has been carefully shaped to retain the traditional Celeste appeal using a one piece GRP front, sandwich construction floor, walls and roof, and a distinctively styled back.

The renowned balanced Swift design, ensures safe stable towing.

Inside the Celeste there is every conceivable holiday comfort from blown air central heating to a luxury shower room with gold style taps and shower head, shaver point and a cassette toilet.

The kitchen has a large Electrolux fridge and four burner flame failure hob, both with electronic ignition, and an attractive glass fronted oven and grill.

There is an on board fresh water tank and the water heating system is dual gas/electric operated. There are two mains lights, four 12 volt reading lights, courtesy lights in both the full length wardrobe and glass fronted cocktail cabinet and even low entrance lights in the door well.

Take a close look at the detailed feature list and you will see that the Celeste adds a new dimension to the Swift tradition.
